Original Recipe can be found at www.modabakeshop.com

Instructions:

- Choose 9 layer cake squares {10 inch squares}
- cut each square into 8.5 inches X 7 inches rectangle

- arrange and sew the pieces in a nine patch similar to this, alternating lights and darks

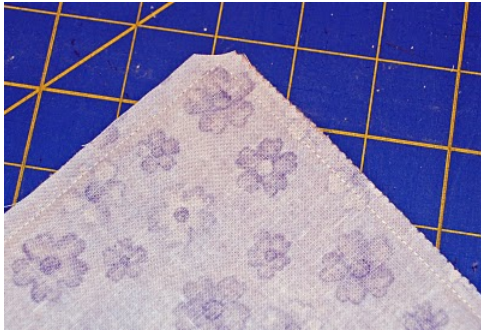

- if you haven't already, cut the lining and batting 19.5 X 24
- layer lining right side up, bunting top right side down and batting as shown.
- starting in the middle of what will become your 'bottom' sew 1/4 seam around the perimeter of the quilt sandwich.
- Stop about 4-5 inches from your starting point to leave an area for turning.
- Clip corners to reduce bulk

- After sewing your 'quilt sandwich' should look similar at the opening.

- turning it out

- clipped corner

- Once piece is turned, iron to smooth edges.
- Pin the opening closed as shown.
- Sew a 1/4 inch top stitch around the perimeter of the quilt being careful to catch your opening to finish the edge.

- Quilt center using a walking foot to help prevent shifting.
- Consider quilting an X through the centers of the rectangles or meander edge to edge.
- This project would be a great way to practice your machine quilting technique.

- Here's a view of the lining.

- Next lay the piece on your work surface with lining facing up.
- Fold in the sides of the bunting to meet in the center.
- Overlap the center front about 1/4 inch and carefully pin together about 6 inches from the top all the way to the bottom.
- You do you not want to catch the fabric underneath.

Original Recipe can be found at www.modabakeshop.com

- Next, top stitch over your original top stitching slowly.
- You do NOT want to catch the fabric underneath.

- In order to achieve this, roll the quilt piece as you stitch to 'take up' the bulk.

- near the top you may have to stop and stitch from the opposite direction due to the bulk of the piece.

- you will end up with a 'tube'.

- Pin across the bottom edge and sew over the original top stitching if possible.

Fold down the top edge to expose the lining a bit.

Yield:

And there you have it, only 45 minutes later, a quick, easy, baby doll bunting that any little girl will love.
