- 1 hushabye charm pack
- 1 hushabye jelly roll
- 1 hushabye layer cake
- 4 yards of backing

Original Recipe can be found at www.modabakeshop.com

Instructions:

cut a 2 1/2" square from each jelly roll strip for a total of forty 2 1/2" squares.

lay out 36 layer cake pieces in a 6x6 setting.
make sure it's in an order that you love.
{i did this on my livingroom floor.}

lay one charm square on top of each layer cake piece.

lay one 2 1/2" square on top of each charm square so that all the squares are appealing to you.

note: you don't have to do this step, if you don't want.
i stacked all my rows and labeled them to take them to my machine.
{i didn't want to run back & forth from my machine to my livingroom floor.}
feel free to do what works for you.

sew a charm square to your layer cake square, using a 1/4" seam allowance.
{a walking foot comes in handy here.}

sew a 2 1/2" square on top of your charm square, still using 1/4" seam allowance.
rinse & repeat to make 35 more squares.

sew your rows together to make your quilt top.

layer, baste & quilt as desired.
{i outline quilted around the blocks.}

i used the rest of my jelly roll to make a pieced binding...and i ♥ it.
i highly recommend yall do it.
it's SO worth it.

wash & dry your quilt for that straight from the dryer crinkly goodness.
be prepared to trim some strings.

Yield:

now you have one amazing scruffily quilt!!!
oh how i ♥ it!!!

this quilt is the perfect movie watching quilt finishing at 55" square.
not to mention it's an easy peasy gift for all those peeps on your gift list.

and the possibilities are endless.
just think of all those color options.
i'm currently making another one in cotton blossoms.
{i know...be still my heart.}
