Bamboo Blend Batting

- Is 50% Bamboo and 50% Cotton.
- Has a soft, silky hand and some naturally anti-microbial properties. Good option for allergy sufferers, most are not allergic to bamboo.
- It is durable, breathable, and comfortable. The regenerated cellulosic fiber has microscopic pores that allow for excellent wicking which draws moisture away from the body to the fiber making it a good warm weather option.
- Excellent for quilts that are used for sleeping.

Legacy Batting

FR Rayon Batting Flame Retardant Rayon

- Produces a very comfortable warm weather batting that is soft, smooth, absorbent and non-irritating to the skin.
- The added property of being flame retardant makes it resistant to combustion.
- This batting is ideal for children's bedding and clothing because it is flame retardant, but in the event of ignition will not burn, stick, drip or cause further damage.
- Rayon has the properties similar to natural cellulosics such as absorbency and being biodegradable.

Wool Batting

- Made from super washed soft wool, bonded to retard bearding and should not shrink.
- The ultimate experience in hand quilting, there is little resistance and the lofty nature of wool shows an amazing definition in the stitches.
- Machine quilters who desire very closely stitched areas use Wool for its softness. When using a finer thread, the quilt remains soft and does not result in a stiff quilt.
- If a sleeping quilt is your goal, wool is the answer! It breathes naturally and allows air to pass through, making an excellent summer quilt. Yet these same qualities also keep you warm in the winter.

White Cotton Batting with Scrim

Scrim binder is a thin sheet of polypropylene, which is very much like a dryer sheet, that is needle punched onto one or more sides of batting as it is processed. Legacy By Pellon batting uses only a very lightweight scrim. This adds strength and durability that is sought by machine quilters yet allows softness and ease of stitch that everyone appreciates.
